Our clients

From working directly with parents find the right schools for their family to supporting international companies as they onboard their new international placement, our clients share the same goal- a successful integration into a new life in Switzerland. Working with parents from Google, MSD, Johnson & Johnson, Biogen, Roche, Novartis, Glencore, Lonza, UBS, Credit Suisse and many other expat communities, we help them achieve this by supporting their family as they decide upon and settle into their new school life.

'I will definitely recommend your services to any parents deciding on schools for their children. I wish you had been around when we moved to Switzerland as we tried local, bilingual, and international with our 2 oldest children!'

Client stories

Integrating older children

When we arrived in Switzerland, our then 7 and 9-year-old daughters had already been to schools in Great Britain and the Netherlands for 3 and five years, respectively. This obviously means that they were well past Kindergarten age and got thrown into the Swiss school system mid primary.

We knew that we wanted to be part of the local community, have local friends, introduce the girls to a second language and that Switzerland was going to be our home for the foreseeable future so we selected to send the girls to the local school route. We obviously knew nothing about the local system, only that it is totally different from what we were used to!

This is when we engaged the services of Stefanie. She was a good-sent! Stefanie helped us to find a local school that offered a good German programme and had some experience with integrating older children.

There are many ways to Rome

We moved here with 3 children. The oldest age 7, our daughter age 5 and the youngest age 3. Since we didn't want to throw them straightaway in the local school system, we started with international school. After 2 years, we decided to change, and my oldest son started in the local Swiss school at the age of 9. As we have gone through the system we have confronted some of the urban myths like „your child will be rejected“ and then you get there and realize that it is not like that and that there are some great opportunities. The difficulty is knowing about them. This is where someone like Stefanie with knowledge of all the different options is priceless!

Why us?

We help families, like yours, find the best schooling for their children, every day.

With almost ten years of helping families, we will help you navigate the Swiss education system and make the right decision for your children's education.

You will always receive independent advice, tailored to meet your family needs.

As we are not affiliated with or paid by any schools, we promise that you will always receive unbiased, independent guidance that suits your family's needs. We are proud to be the only independent school consultancy in the German-speaking part of Switzerland!

Our network becomes your network.

With our extensive first-hand knowledge of both the public and private school system, we have contacts across the Swiss education authorities and schools, which means we can help you find the right school, the right educational support you are looking for.

We know local so you will learn about all the school options available.

There are a lot of relocation agencies and consultants who specialise in finding a private fee-paying school. Unfortunately, these can be unfamiliar with how the local system and the sometimes-complex processes required in finding the right school. By choosing us, we will ensure that you have the complete information you need to make an informed choice that is right for your family.

You can have ongoing support throughout your child's school life- as and when you need it.

You will find most assistance that comes with your school placement is usually offered as a one-off service, yet ex-pat families with children in Swiss state schools have a strong need for ongoing support with school matters. We offer packages that combine information & guidance on school options with ongoing support.

Our support is tailored to your family's needs.

We offer one-off packages, as well as ongoing support, to help your family beyond the settling-in phase and make your educational journey a smooth one.

We are international.

Our clients have arrived in Switzerland from over 10 countries. As well as guiding families on the pathways in the Swiss school system, we know that many families look for international options for when it's time to go to University, so we also offer guidance on the entry requirements for universities abroad.

About us

Stefanie Busse, Founder

Educational Consultant, public speaker and school teacher

The combination of my background as a professional interpreter and schoolteacher in both Swiss public and private schools and being a parent that has moved internationally has not only given me valuable insights into the Swiss education sector, but also a passion to help international families settle into their new school life.

Schooling is a crucial topic for Expat parents. The challenges I saw parents face as they tried to make sense of different school systems and struggled to get meaningful information about available schooling options resonated with my own experiences as an Expat mother to school-aged children. It also inspired to me create Swiss Education Consulting nearly ten years ago, in 2012.

Swiss Education Consulting – at a glance

- 10 years as Education Consultant supporting families and companies in Switzerland
- Established Education consultant with a wide network among Swiss education authorities and schools.
- Qualified teacher with 20 years' teaching experience.
- Certified interpreter and translator for German, English, and Spanish.
- Educational speaker

It gives me immense pleasure to help many parents to navigate their new host country and to gain a better understanding of the Swiss school system.”
